The Artist

Foreword

Buckeye Union High School 1966-67 as seen thru the eyes of the artists . . . Thru the ages man has constantly strived to express his thoughts and images in some form of art. Without art, man would face a mental stagnation of overpowering proportions. Today we are surrounded by art — it affects our buildings, our homes, our dress, our everyday life . . . let's take a look as we view the 1966-67 school year thru the eyes of the artists . . .

MR. JOHN GLUR

"Man should not paint or carve anything except what he can see around him, so that God's majesty may not be corrupted by fantasies" wrote John Calvin. So it was that the Dutch painters turned to the objects of the world around them. Portraits of individuals and of assembled guild members were very popular and Rembrandt became the greatest portrait artist of the Baroque North. His faces do not seem complacent; they are men troubled and saddened by experience . . . so are the faces of our school board members today, for on their shoulders rest the heavy burden of the education of the young people of the community.

PATRONS OF THE ARTS . . .

In 1515 Francis I came to the throne of unified France. Under him the fortified medieval castles were expanded into great chateaux, and new ones were built for the multiplying members of the court. Leonardo da Vinci worked for him, designing architecture, fountains, costumes, and other objects. In comparison, since Mr. McNabb came to the Buckeye Union High School District our school has also expanded. The school has been almost completely remodeled. The C building, Snack Bar, Hawks Haven, the Educational Materials Center have been built. Also, land has been acquired for further expansion in order to provide a modern school for the community. New courses have been added, and like Francis I who was a cultivator of the arts, has been quite interested in the art program of our school.

Superintendent Chester D. McNabb

*Leonardo Da Vinci's
Mona Lisa
and Buckeye Union
High School's Irene Makin*

A portrait may gain attention by being seen as a master piece, by being stored and held for respect, or by having a mistake be part of it. All of this has happened to the Mona Lisa and much more. The figure is evidence of Leonardo da Vinci's status and of his psychology, which can be analyzed in many ways. Mrs. Makin, on the other hand, has not given her romantic and adventurous life of the Mona Lisa, such as being stored in a museum, but would recognize the fact that she is a student and personality, a person without an understanding, etc., and through her forget her success in the past and on looking at the Mona Lisa we can and do appreciate Mrs. Makin's smile more readily.

Mr. Everett Myers Principal

Although we do not see the face of "That Gentleman" the face is as surely felt as the leather of the shoes, the scolding paint of the chair, or the metallic gleam of the scissors. The reality of the mood takes precedent over the usual domination of the painting by the portrayal of a face. With Mr. Myers we have seen the face and perhaps in some cases have felt the leather of the shoes. Seriously, we believe that in the year Mr. Myers has been here we have felt his understanding personality and his determination to let us know that the welfare of the students is his main objective. Andrew Wyeth, the artist of "That Gentleman" considers that comparisons and contrasts in textures give the illusion of light while Mr. Myers believes that the light of education can only be acquired through hard work and studious effort.

The Counselors

YOUNG BEGGAR by Murillo

We see the issues of life quite simply, even though in themselves they are not simple. No doubt, at one time, the portrayal of "Low" life, such as this Murillo, gave pleasure to the nobility because it also gave a sense of superiority . . . a sense of the power of wealth. Mr. Glur and Mr. Smith appreciate this painting for they thru their experience do not see life as simple. Illiteracy is a thing of the past and one of their objectives is to guide every student into the proper educational program which in the end will give pleasure to the individual and to the world

JOHN GLUR

MARY JANE HARDESTY

TWO YOUNG GIRLS WITH SEVERE

These two children are among the calmer presentations which Egon Schiele produced during his brief life. There is a sureness in the line although the two little girls sit nervously together . . . almost as if they were afraid the space outside were not made to move in. There is a need for distortion - it is as if the distortion were arising from a wordless inner experience. Speaking of experience the two secretaries Mrs. Hardesty and Mrs. Turner are two busy people in the school. Everyday the office is running over with activity and it is up to these two people to see that all runs smooth. No wonder they sit nervously together!

It works to enable members to study and identify the qualities, traits and aptitudes which are basic or related to successful teaching, to secure accurate information on vocational opportunities in education and special data required to aid in self-evaluation, and to participate in pre-vocational activities which are both exploratory and developmental in nature.

HONORID HAWKS

Seven members of Bl. HS's football squad received honors as a result of their outstanding performance for the 1966 season. Jim T. [redacted] was named All Star Football Player by the Arizona High School All Star Football Council. Everett Hayden was on the All State Team, second team All Conference and also chosen to play in the All Star.

Football game. Dick Villa and Bob Cuevas were picked on the All Conference Second Team, Bruce Bolen, Frank Roberts, and Rufus Bolden were chosen honorable mention on the All Conference Team.

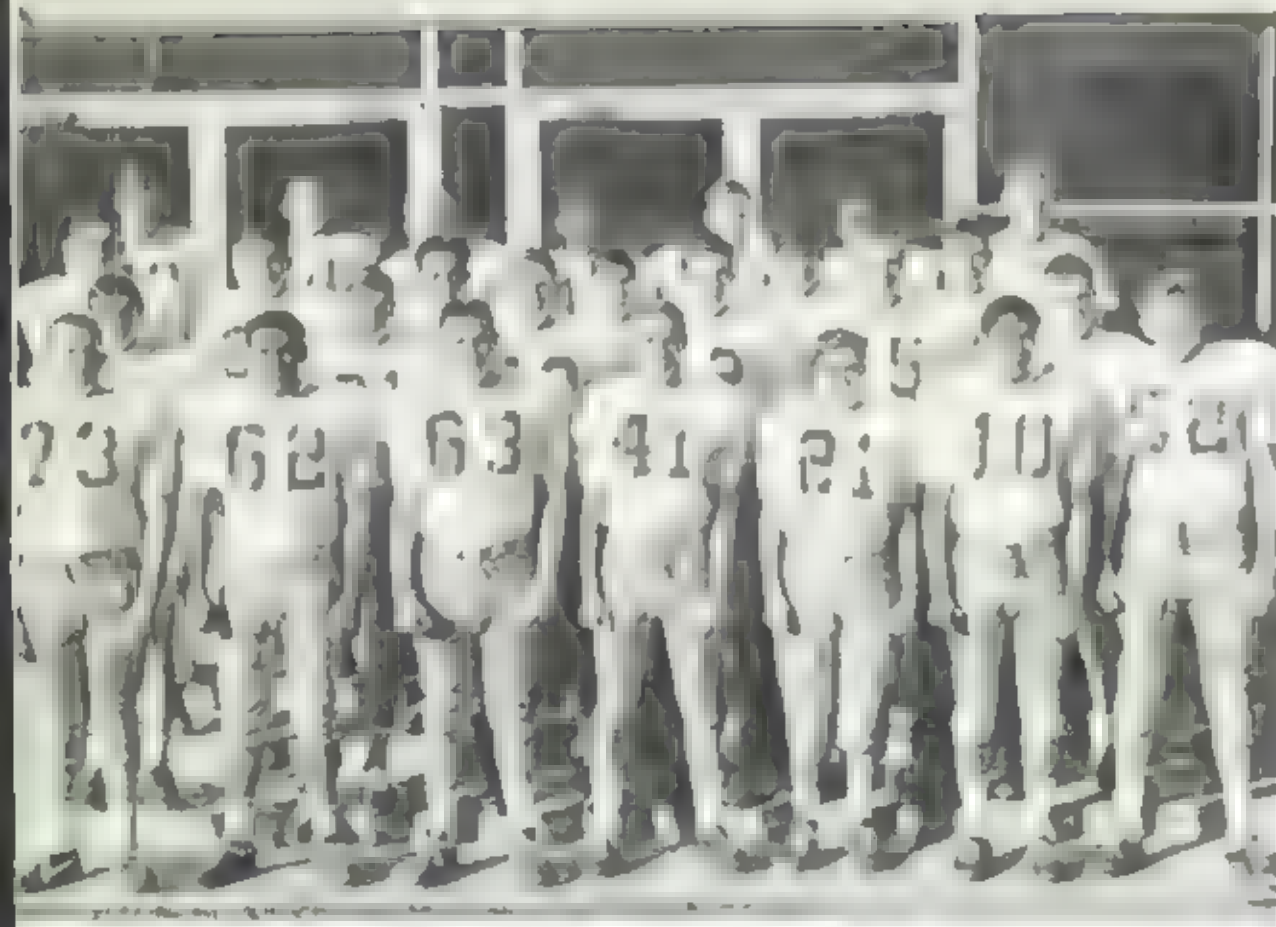

The four captains for the season were Terrells, Roberts, Hayden and Bolen. Villa and Cuevas will return next year and were elected by their team mates to captain the 1967 Hawks. Coach Ramsey says the squad is very proud of the honors these boys have received and also feels that the football program is off the ground and expects to have a more sound, solid squad for next year, although there is still a lot of hard work ahead.

Coach Ramsey thanks all the coaches of the respective teams for their efforts as he feels this is one of the key factors in future success for football at B.U.H.S.

Hawks Basketball Varsity

The 1966-67 addition of Buckeye Union High School Basketball proved to be very successful as the Hawks called their own loss record for the season. The basketball season was the 2nd best in the history of Buckeye Union High School Basketball. The Hawks lost only to Agate in two close conference games and to Snowflake High School in the later division playoffs. The failure to return to the State Tournament proved to be a big disappointment to all students and fans who followed the Hawks throughout the season as well as to the players and coaching staff. Mark Kemp broke a 21 year old scoring record for varsity competition by scoring 146 points this year on the varsity. The Hawks coach & former men through graduation Mark Kemp, Jim Terrells, Bruce Bolen, Tarry Groves, and Robert Sude. However with 5 former men returning and a fine group coming up from the Junior Varsity who won 18 and lost 1, the Hawks could very well be a contender in the conference again next year.

Varsity and J.V. Baseball

The 1966 edition of the Backeye Baseball Team opened an ambitious twenty game schedule on March 1st with an away game against Boardgate High School at Phoenix. The score was 11-1 for Boardgate. The Hawks home opener was against defending conference champion Agua Fria on March 12. Thirteen varsity candidates were fighting for several positions left open from the 1965 season which was predominately a senior lineup. Bruce Bolen and Henry Federico were the only returning regulars. Bolen handled first base and Federico pitched center field. Ken Butler and Bob Cuevas were the only other returning lettermen. Both saw considerable action during the 1965 season as starting pitchers and with the help of Charles Mashburn gave Backeye a strong pitching staff. According to Coach Roger Tompkins "The Hawks are fairly young and inexperienced with only five seniors, but with the addition of several good prospects up from the junior varsity the team was in the thick of the conference race. The Hawks received a severe blow at the beginning of the season when Gordon Butler broke his right ankle in practice and was lost for the full year.

The Junior Varsity under Coach Glen Smith and the Freshmen under Coach Jerry Conner also opened their schedule with games against Agua Fria.
